

About Michael:

Dr. Michael Millar is a credentialed executive & professional development coach based in Southern California. His professional experience of 30+ years in the creative industries, higher education, management, leadership, and community service enable him to serve his clients' needs through a distinctive combination of perspectives. He engages his clients in creative conversations and reflections to develop awareness of their personal and professional possibilities. Using these insights, his clients can then transform possibilities into purposeful action.

Michael Millar is Lecturer Emeritus in Music Industry studies at Cal Poly Pomona and is an Arts Commissioner for the City of Santa Clarita. He holds the degree of Doctor of Musical Arts, with concentrations in Performance and Arts Administration, from Claremont Graduate University, where he studied management and leadership with Peter F. Drucker and Jean Lipman-Blumen. He is an artist/educational clinician for Conn-Selmer, Inc. and is a voting member of the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences. His consulting clients have included Claremont Graduate University and the Getty Leadership Institute. Dr. Millar holds the Associate Certified Coach (ACC) credential from the International Coaching Federation. He is a Certified Facilitator in Peter F. Drucker's "The Five Most Important Questions" Self-Assessment Tool and is a Certified Associate of the Connective Leadership Institute.
